

New Immigration Fees Authorized by the “One Big Beautiful Bill Act”

On July 4, 2025, President Trump signed a new law called the “One Big Beautiful Bill Act.” The Act includes new fees for certain immigration applications which take effect immediately. These new fees are in addition to the existing fees you already pay. On July 9, EOIR announced that it will begin collecting immigration court filing and appeals fees. On July 18, USCIS announced that fees for asylum, work authorization documents, temporary protected status, and special immigrant juveniles will be required with applications filed on or after July 22. The collection of the other fees listed below is delayed until the government updates the payment process. Most of these fees cannot be waived or reduced and these fees will increase annually due to inflation.

Below is a chart showing the various fees from the Act. If you think these fee increases might affect you, please contact your immigration attorney. If you do not have an immigration attorney, you can find a licensed attorney at www.ailalawyer.com.
