Adjusting Status to become a U.S. permanent resident?

1. Your relative or employer files an immigrant petition for you.

2. Determine your petition type:

a. Visas for immediate relative petitions (spouses of U.S. citizens, unmarried children under 21 of U.S. citizens, parents of U.S. Citizens) are unlimited and always available. You may file your Form I-485 at the same time your U.S. citizen relative files a Form I-130.

b. Visas for family-sponsored and employment-based preference petitions are limited. You will need to consult the U.S. Department of State (DOS) Visa Bulletin to see if you can file your Form I-485. In order to use the Visa Bulletin, you will need to know your priority date.

3. What's my priority Date?

This is the date your relative or employer filed an immigrant petition on your behalf.

or

The date the Department of Labor accepts a labor certification for processing (when applicable).

4. Find out if you can file your I-485: Check uscis.gov/visabulletininfo
 It will explain whether you should use the Application Final Action Dates chart or Dates for Filing Visa Applications chart to determine when you can file.

To use the charts:

1. Find your visa type in the first column (on the left) of the appropriate chart (Family-sponsored, Employment-based, or Diversity Visa).

2. Stay in that row and move directly to the right to find the corresponding date under the country of your birth (as listed in the boldface columns across the top).

3. If the date on the chart is current ("C") or your priority date is earlier than the date on the chart, you may file your adjustment of status application, if otherwise eligible to do so.

About the Visa Bulletin

DOS publishes current immigrant visa availability information in a monthly Visa Bulletin. The Visa Bulletin indicates when statutorily limited visas are available for issuance to prospective immigrants based on their individual priority date.

AILA Doc. No. 16081001. (Posted 8/10/16)

On Nov. 20, 2014, the Secretary of Homeland Security directed USCIS to work with DOS to:

- Ensure that all immigrant visas authorized by Congress are issued to eligible individuals when there is sufficient demand for such visas, and
- Improve the Visa Bulletin system for determining when immigrant visas are available to applicants during the fiscal year.

Additionally, in July 2015, the Administration issued its report on Modernizing and Streamlining Our Legal Immigration System for the 21st Century. This report included detailed recommendations to revise and update the monthly Visa Bulletin to better estimate immigrant visa availability and provide needed predictability to nonimmigrant workers seeking permanent residency.

USCIS, in coordination with DOS, revised the procedures for determining visa availability for applicants waiting to file for adjustment of status. The revised process will better align with procedures DOS uses for foreign nationals who seek to become U.S. permanent residents by applying for immigrant visas at U.S. consulates and embassies abroad.

This revised process will enhance DOS's ability to more accurately predict overall immigrant visa demand in determining the cut-off dates for the Visa Bulletin. This will help ensure that the maximum number of immigrant visas are issued annually as intended by Congress, and minimize month-to-month fluctuations in Visa Bulletin final action dates. Additional goals are outlined in the White House report, Modernizing and Streamlining Our Legal Immigration System for the 21st Century.

New Visa Bulletin Charts

The Visa Bulletin will now have two different charts because of the revised procedures. DOS will post two charts per visa preference category in the DOS Visa Bulletin. The charts are:

- Application Final Action Dates (dates when visas may finally be issued); and
- Dates for Filing Applications (earliest dates when applicants may be able to apply).

When USCIS determines there are immigrant visas available for the filing of additional adjustment of status applications, the Dates for Filing Applications chart may be used to determine when to file an adjustment of status application with USCIS. Otherwise, the Application Final Action Dates chart must be used to determine when to file an adjustment of status application with USCIS.

In coordination with the DOS, USCIS will monitor visa numbers each month and post the relevant chart on this page under When to File.

Determining Visa Availability

USCIS considers several factors to determine if there is a greater supply of visas than the demand for those visas. To determine visa availability, USCIS will compare the number of visas available for the remainder of the fiscal year with:

- Documentarily qualified visa applications reported by DOS;
- Pending adjustment of status applications reported by USCIS; and Historical drop off rate of applicants for adjustment of status (for example, denials, withdrawals and abandonments)
